MAC · NEW IN 0.13.0

The Mac app, redrawn

Each screen shows a thing once and leads with what you came for.

THE WINDOW

1 Actions has its own page. The number is what's still open.

2 Two groups: Remember and Assistant.

3 Settings sits at the foot and opens in its own window.

4 Today is panels, with what needs you first.

A MEETING

One sheet names every voice you haven't named yet.

5 The player stays under the title on every tab.

6 Actions split into For you and For others. Each owner is a menu on its row.

7 No Review tab. Name speaker... opens the sheet above.

8 Share holds copy and export.

ELSEWHERE

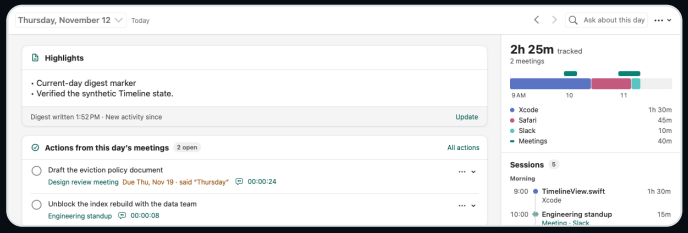

Actions: Open, Deferred, Done and one Filter menu, overdue first, details beside the list. ⌘-click picks several.

Ask: one field. Return asks; ↓ then Return opens a match. ⌘K opens Quick Recall: search, commands and Ask in one window.

Settings (⌘,): Overview lists what needs you; Privacy & permissions is the one home for permissions.

Timeline: the day page and the Sessions rail. New since this capture: drag the rail's edge to widen it.

Mac only; the Windows and Linux app keeps its own layout. The menu bar panel and People were checked only as renders, and the new wording in 24 languages is machine-translated, not yet reviewed by native speakers.
